What a sad day (of which I was unaware of until my Zap2it Labs subscription was cut-off). It turns out that Zap2it Labs shut its door to the open-source community as a result of [commercial] abuse of their free direct TV listing service. Commercial users and abusers should be ashamed of themselves... Thankfully, Schedules Direct is offering an identical service at a small fee (which I'll gladly pay to ensure smooth operation of my KnoppMyth box). The price was lowered to $15/6-months, with hopes of it reaching $20/year.
